OCEAN VIEW ESTATE

The Gould Estate of 1918 is a rare Early California Hacienda created by the most respected Los Angeles architect of the time, Reginald Johnson. This historic example of Montecito's most significant past offers panoramic ocean, island and harbor views, two parcels totaling 5+/- acres, and a gated circular motor court with a hand carved mission gate entry opening to a walled interior courtyard and specimen vegetation. Inside are generous public rooms with wonderful period details like cut stone fireplace mantels, high beamed ceilings, and highly detailed oak leaf wall sconces. The home features a gourmet kitchen, formal dining room, a spacious living room, solarium, library, study, a large master suite and three family bedrooms.
